

The President's Council accepts UWC report as the basis for new Act

The President's Council met on Thursday, June 11, in the Board Room, Simcoe Hall. Dean A. C. H. Hallett, chairman of the meetings of the University-wide Committee, and Ken McEvoy were present to take part in a discussion of the Summary of Proceedings of the University-wide Committee.

Dean Hallett said that the summary was completely factual. It had been issued as an interim report pending transcription of the verbatim record of the whole series of meetings. The President praised the University-wide Committee as an impressive event, a bold concept, the culmination of two years of discussion by CUG and by the whole University. It had worked because of the careful preparation of procedures, the excellent physical facilities in the Macdonald Building, widespread and restrained participation by all groups following the first University-wide elections in its history, and superb chairmanship. This admiration was shared by all members of the Council. In particular, the students were praised for their statesmanship in waiving their right to defer further work until the fall, in order not to hold up implementation proceedings. Their minority report has not yet been received but is expected later this month.

Prof. Friedland asked if, before the President took the report to the Board of Governors for forwarding to the Minister of University Affairs, the Council would think it advisable to add a recommendation, probably in the form of a formal resolution, assuring the Board and the Government that this did indeed represent the position of the University and urging immediate pursuit of implementation. The Council agreed that this was a good idea, but it became apparent that more than one resolution was needed.

On the first point, that the UWC proceedings represented the voice of the University, there was no disagreement. The Government was more likely to act, members thought, if it thought there was real consensus in the University; therefore it was to be hoped that the Board could offer the recommendation its strong support. It was agreed that communication should go in two directions; both outward, towards the Government, and within, back to those members of the University who had not taken part in the proceedings. It was decided that the motion should include mention of the two years of deliberations and of the fact that representatives to the UWC were elected from all sections of the University. Special mention of the alumni was also requested.

On the more specific point of recommending implementation of this particular Top Governing Structure, opinion varied slightly. Doubts were voiced that the suggested body was too large for effective work. It was pointed out that although the doubters had reason for their doubts and that very few people would endorse the solution as the absolute and only one, the political situation remained: a compromise had been worked out and a balance achieved by a coming together of the whole University and the results could not be ignored. Although it might be better if the proposed structure were half the size, it would then probably be unacceptable to the faculty and the students, who might fear that their numbers would be too small for adequate representation of their diverse elements. Unless the Council thought the whole of the proposed structure was wrong, it should give the UWC report full support. It was suggested that the motion should include a statement that the Council believed the solution to be both reasonable and workable; otherwise rumour might spread that certain people in high places thought it would not work. As the new governing structure was so different from the one now in operation it would in any event have to work out its own ways of functioning. It would be important that anyone expecting to be elected to such a new board understood what a substantial and time-consuming job he was taking on.

All members agreed that maintaining the momentum was the most important thing, and it was suggested that a joint committee of the Board and the President's Council, perhaps including the Chairman of the Board and the President, should be appointed to carry on discussions and negotiations with the Government. This joint committee would be expected to keep in close touch with the sub-committee of the UWC described in its Resolution 18, a sub-committee which would be familiar with the sensitive areas and with the arguments on which certain decisions of the UWC were based. For purely practical reasons, somebody, probably in the Registrar's Office, should begin work immediately on planning constituencies and procedures for elections in anticipa-

Statement by the Caput on disciplinary procedures

The following statement on disciplinary procedures has been prepared by the Caput of the University and distributed to all senior officers of faculties, colleges, schools and other divisions and to the presidents of student organizations:

Discipline on a university-wide basis is vested in the Caput and over the years, since 1906, the Caput has functioned in the area of discipline on the basis of guidelines set out for it by the University of Toronto Act. During the past few years there has come a growing realization that as a result of changing times and circumstances there was a need for the university community to re-examine the entire question of disciplinary procedures. Consequently, in 1968 the Acting President of the university, after consultation with representative groups of students and staff, appointed a Presidential Advisory Committee on Disciplinary Procedures under the Chairmanship of Professor Ralph Campbell of the Department of Political Economy. In the spring of 1969, pending receipt and implementation of the Campbell Committee's report, the Caput proposed that its own composition be changed to make it more representative of students, staff and administration. A small committee was formed, composed of representatives of the Caput, the ATS, the SAC and the GSU to study this question. The committee met 5 times, but

Bookroom discount for faculty will be discontinued as of July 1

In the spring of 1969 a subcommittee was established to advise the Press Committee of the Board of Governors on the operation of the University of Toronto Bookstores. The subcommittee's terms of reference stated that the Bookstores must achieve a balanced budget.

The subcommittee has seven voting members: three appointed by the ATS, three appointed by the SAC, and one representing the central administration. Representatives of the Bookstores, the University of Toronto Press, and the Board of Governors sit as ex officio members. The faculty members are:

Prof. J. Kornberg, Department of History

Prof. J. H. Stevens, The College of Education

Prof. P. Gamlin, Institute of Child Study.

The present student members are:

Miss A. Maurer

G. Van Geign

J. Court.

The seventh voting member, and chairman, is Prof. D. F. Forster.

The ex officio members are:

J. A. Tory, representing the Board of Governors

H. Bohne, representing the University of Toronto Press

C. H. Fanning, representing the University of Toronto Bookstores.

The subcommittee presented its first report to the Press Committee on May 5. In the report, the group stated that it views the function of the Bookstores to be the provision of books "to members of the University community at the lowest possible price without subsidy from the University". The report discusses the Bookstores' retailing policies and recommends that the special order service and the charge account service continue to be provided without charge. The subcommittee recommends equal treatment for faculty and students as to any discounts. Instituting this principle will mean that, effective July 1, the 10% discount presently allowed to faculty members but not students on purchases made in the University Bookroom will be abolished. The subcommittee also reported that it does not favour the use of profits realized by the Bookstores for capital expansion. This is viewed as a hidden tax on books.

The subcommittee hopes to develop long-range plans for the Bookstores in the coming year. This will involve detailed examination of physical and fiscal requirements as well as a continuing effort to expand the variety and effectiveness of customer services.

Dr Nikiforuk Dentistry Dean

Dr. Gordon Nikiforuk has been named dean of the Faculty of Dentistry, with effect from July 1. He succeeds Dr. R. G. Ellis, who has been dean of the Faculty since July, 1947, and recently assumed the new post of chairman of the University's Health Sciences Council.

Dr. Nikiforuk completed pre-dental training in the University of Saskatchewan and enrolled in the Faculty of Dentistry of the University of Toronto in 1945, obtaining his D.D.S. in 1947. After two years at the University of Illinois School of Dentistry he obtained his M.S. in biochemistry and then joined the Department of Pedodontics there.

Rejoining the U of T as associate professor of preventive dentistry in 1950, he became professor of preventive dentistry, 1956. Meanwhile, he served as assistant director, Department of Dentistry, Hospital for Sick Children 1952-64, and was chairman of the Division of Dental Research of the U of T, from 1954-64.

In 1964, Dr. Nikiforuk was appointed chairman of the Division of Pediatric Dentistry in the University of California in Los Angeles. He also served as chairman, Dental Study Section, U.S. National Institutes of Health, 1967-68. He was named acting dean, UCLA School of Dentistry in 1968 and in 1969 became director of the Dental Research Institute at UCLA.

Dr. Nikiforuk has always shown a live interest in research, especially in the field of preventive dentistry. In the period 1948-69 he published more than 70 scientific papers.

tion of the changes. Dean Allen, speaking out of experience of the New Program in Arts and Science, emphasized the vital necessity of working out general procedures in advance of actual authorization of the changes, if a year's delay was to be avoided; he saw it as an administrative problem, the job of a different kind of committee from the implementation committee of Resolution 18. It was thought that the machinery for working out administrative details already existed and that the President could set it in motion himself, but that co-operation between the Council and the Board was very important to achieve a union of the Board's legal power to press the government into action with the credibility of a more widely representative body (albeit without, as yet, undergraduate representation) like the President's Council.

Before taking a vote on the three motions, the Council considered briefly the question of the minority report, specifically, whether it could vote on the majority document without seeing the minority report. The decision was to go ahead with the votes on the main document, and to consider the minority report at a later meeting. Obviously, the Council could judge only what was before it. The students present agreed that the need for maintaining momentum was the prime consideration: the last meeting of the Board before September would be held on June 25; the document must go to that meeting or the whole summer would be lost; and the minority report was unlikely to be received in time for that meeting. In any event, it was the opinion of many members that a minority report was a means of expressing dissent on some point, and of keeping options open for the future, the sort of thing that anyone might send to the implementation people, and that its authors would not wish to use it to hold up the main report; there was, therefore, nothing against dealing with the majority report now and considering the minority report later.

The following three resolutions were moved, seconded and carried:

1. Greene/Allen: WHEREAS the deliberations of the University-wide Committee came at the conclusion of two years of sustained discussion in the University,

AND WHEREAS the University-wide Committee was elected by the University as a whole and therefore may be said to be fully representative of the University community (including the alumni),

AND WHEREAS its deliberations

were carefully examined and systematically carried out,

The President's Council looks upon the recommendations as constituting an authoritative statement of the convictions of the University with respect to its government. (Carried unanimously).

2. Greene/Rapson: WHEREAS the conclusions reached by the University-wide Committee represent a careful reconciliation of different points of view and the achievement of agreement within the University,

Therefore the President's Council is of the opinion that these conclusions should be looked upon as the basis for the writing of a new University of Toronto Act. The President's Council is furthermore of the opinion that the solution reached is a workable and realistic one that embodies a precise attempt to formulate generally accepted principles. (Carried with 3 abstentions).

3. Friedland/Reeve: The President's Council feels it is desirable for a joint committee to be established by the Board of Governors and the President's Council to work out ways of implementing the recommendations of the University-wide Committee. (Carried unanimously).

The President's Council also examined the report of a study group under the chairmanship of Mr. Ross which had examined student aid for a forthcoming report of the Committee of Presidents of Universities of Ontario. The report recommended a tentative acceptance of the Cook/Stager scheme of student aid based on income-related repayment loans, with the difference that aid to disadvantaged students would be non-repayable in the first, and possibly also the second, year. It was recognized that some aspects of the scheme had received as yet inadequate study (assessment of public and private benefit, the negative dowry effect on women, the opt-out interest rate). It was also recognized that such a scheme would be very difficult to explain to high school students well enough to persuade those who would not otherwise consider university education to reconsider. Nevertheless, the Council thought that the report should be sent on to the CPUO, with some changes to call attention to the conditions on which acceptance of the scheme are based, in order to place the University's view on record.

In a brief discussion, the Council authorized Mr. Ross to press on with the formation of the committee to study the trimester system asked for last year, even if he is unable to secure as broadly representative a membership as had been hoped.

U of T Press wins several awards for book design and production

The University of Toronto Press has won several awards for the design of its books this year—the most recent being the inclusion of three books in the annual production quality show of the Association of American University Presses.

The exhibition, which was opened at the Association's annual meeting at the University of Wisconsin, June 15, consisted of 30 books selected from the total 1969 output of the 70 major North American university presses. They were chosen to "represent the highest standards of bookmaking in both design and production." No more than three books in any one press could be included in the show: but for that limit, one judge remarked, the presses of Toronto and M.I.T. "might have further dominated the selections."

Toronto books in the show, which will visit Toronto in the course of the next twelve months, are:

Economic Atlas of Ontario/Atlas Economique de l'Ontario by W. G. Dean and G. J. Matthews, designed by G. J. Matthews (Department of Geography) and Allan Fleming.

Verlaine: A Study in Parallels by A. E. Carter, designed by Antje Lingner.

The Violin: History, Aesthetics, Manufacture, and Acoustics by Emile Leipp, designed by Peter Dorn.

A few weeks earlier, the annual selection, "50 Books of the Year", was unveiled by the American Institute of Graphic Arts in New York, and the University of Toronto Press imprint was on four of the fifty. The books were selected from the total output of the continent's commercial and university publishers. Toronto titles were Rural Ontario by Verschöyle Blake and Ralph Greenhill, designed by Allan Fleming; Niagara by Ralph Greenhill and Thomas B. Mahoney, designed by Laurie Lewis; as well as Economic Atlas of Ontario and The Violin.

Also this spring, seven Toronto books were among the 30 selected for design from the 1969 lists of all Canadian book publishers, in a competition sponsored by the Book Promotion and Editorial Club. The titles selected were, in addition to those already named, Close the 49th Parallel, Etc. edited by Ian Lumsden (designed by Allan Fleming and Ellen Hutchinson) and Essays in Medieval History presented to Bertie Wilkinson, edited by T. A. Sandquist and Michael R. Powicke (designed by Allan Fleming). Three other books in this Canadian exhibition were designed by staff members of the Press—among them the catalogue of a Hart House sculpture exhibition, African Tribal Art (designed by Peter Dorn), Knoxville, Summer 1915 (designed and printed privately by William Rueter) and Religious Information and Moral Development (designed by Allan Fleming).

MARSH JEANNERET, director of U of T Press, was elected president of the Association of American University Presses during the annual meeting of the Association in Madison, Wisc. June 14-16. The Association consists of seventy regular members in the United States and Canada, and three international members in Mexico, Norway and Japan. In electing Mr. Jeanneret, the Association has gone outside the United States for its president for the first time.

Dean's Report

i. Proposed Graduate Programs: Two proposals for graduate programs, one in immunology and one in metabolic control, have been referred for study and recommendation to the Executive Committee, Division IV. The proposal in metabolic control accompanies a request that separate graduate departmental status be established for the Banting and Best Department for Medical Research.

ii. SGS Applications: Applications for admission totalled 7711 at April 16, compared to last year's final figure of 7664.

iii. Survey of Citizenship of Graduate Students Enrolled in Master's and Doctoral Programs in Ontario Universities: The Survey has, for the second year, been produced by the Ontario Council on Graduate Studies, this time with assistance from the Committee of Presidents of Universities of Ontario. It shows that over the past year there has been a slight increase in the percentage of Canadians, a substantial increase in the percentage of Landed Immigrants, and a corresponding percentage decrease in the foreign student category:

	1968-69	1969-70

v. The President, on the basis of comments received from the Divisional Executive Committees, has revised the composition of the Selection Committee for a new Graduate Dean to consist of the following representatives, under the chairmanship of the President: 2 faculty members and 1 full-time graduate student from each of the four Divisions (one faculty member for Division III to be the Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering), plus the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science as a member at large.

The following nominations have been put forward in accordance with the procedure outlined at the last meeting:

Faculty	Graduate Students
Division I
Profs. V. Graham	P. Brigg
D. LePan
Division II
Profs. B. Macpherson	C. Mackie
G. Flower
Division III
Dean J. Ham	R. Penner
Prof. J. Prentice
Division IV
Profs. L. Siminovich	G. Brosky
F. E. J. Frye

Reports of Divisions

i. Division I: Council approved two recommendations from the Degree Committee, one concerning the admission to a one-year MA program of a suitably-qualified candidate without his actual degree, the other relating to departmental assessment of work completed by a candidate recommended for admission to a 2-year Ph.D. program.

ii. Divisions III and IV: The Divisional Executive Committees have questioned the need to continue with regular meetings of the Division as a whole. Council has agreed to consider the matter after it has been discussed by the Executive Committees of Divisions I and II.

There was no report from Division II.

Enlargement of Student Representation on Council

It was reported that at its April meeting the Senate Executive Committee had considered Council's recommendation that full-time graduate student representation on Council be increased from four members plus five assessors, to 13-3 elective members from each Division, plus the President of the GSU. The recommendation relating to elective representation had been approved, but Council had been asked to reconsider the recommended inclusion of the President was unable to resolve questions relating to the powers and jurisdiction of a re-constituted Caput.

Statement issued by the Caput on disciplinary procedures

On September 30, 1969, the Campbell Committee submitted its report to the President who immediately released it in order that it could be discussed widely in the university community. In a statement accompanying the report, the President expressed the hope that out of this discussion would come new and effective disciplinary policies and procedures for the University of Toronto. He expressed the hope that a representative committee of students and staff could be appointed immediately to initiate wide-spread discussion, to formulate recommendations, and to facilitate implementation. In a subsequent statement on October 1, the President also indicated that he wished to proceed immediately with the formation of an interim university-wide disciplinary body in the spirit of the Campbell Report. It was envisaged that this would be a parity body discharging the functions of the Caput and determining its own procedures. In addition, Dr. Bissell expressed the hope that it would be rapidly superseded by structures arrived at through discussions of the Campbell Report.

Despite many discussions between representatives of the appropriate student associations and faculty groups, once again it proved impossible to reach agreement on the early establishment of an interim disciplinary body. However, it was possible to arrive at a satisfactory agreement concerning the composition of the Programming and Implementation Committee for the Campbell Report. This committee started its deliberations on December 10, 1969 and assumed as its first major responsibility the establishment of an interim disciplinary body to replace the Caput. After a number of meetings, the Programming and Implementation Committee also found itself unable to come to agreement on the composition and the terms of reference of an interim disciplinary body and on March 18, 1970 the committee passed the following resolution:

"Whereas the committee believes that an interim disciplinary body of the form proposed by President Bissell in his letter of October 1, 1969 cannot now be constituted because it would perpetuate one of the major deficiencies of the existing body, namely that its functions are both legislative and judicial;

ferent emphasis on the importance of these two roles the committee is of the opinion that no single interim body of this type can be devised which will meet with general approval;

"We recommend that the existing Caput be considered as the ultimate disciplinary authority in the university until such time as the CUG and Campbell discussions lead to the formation of a more appropriate body or bodies. We further recommend that no disciplinary action should be taken by Caput without consultation with representatives of the appropriate staff and student associations."

On April 24, 1970, the Caput of the University considered this report and accepted with considerable regret the Programming and Implementation Committee's view that it is not now possible to establish a new interim disciplinary body. It fully recognizes the necessity that its functions continue. It agrees that it would be valuable to have consultation with representative staff and/or student groups on appropriate occasions.

The Caput emphasizes, however, that contrary to the statement in the committee's report it does not have a combined legislative and judicial function. Section 73 of the University of Toronto Act states that "A copy of every general rule or regulation made by the Caput shall be transmitted to the Board (of Governors) and no such general rule or regulation shall have any force or effect until it has been approved by the Board". In all disciplinary matters, therefore, the Caput is solely a judicial body which in the past has 'made' law only in the way that this is done by regular courts, that is, in applying the law to particular cases it creates precedents. The Caput is conscious of the fact that some of its actions in the past may have been erroneously interpreted by some as being legislative.

The Caput also wishes to point to the recent statement made by Dr. Bissell concerning the future involvement of the President's Council in problems that in the eyes of the persons concerned have not been satisfactorily dealt with at other levels in the university.

The Caput has been informed that the Campbell Implementation Committee has decided to continue its important work through the summer and the Caput welcomes this initiative. The Committee will meet at least once a week throughout the summer and it is hoped that the efforts of the summer will provide a draft report for consideration by the full committee early in the fall. The Caput ceived a report on new Ph.D.'s and ABD's seeking employment or postdoctoral fellowships in the period December 1969 to June 1970. The information had been elicited for the most part verbally from chairmen and directors, and was not presented as hard data. But it was claimed that the returns gave a fair indication of the present situation so far as this University was concerned, and although suggesting that certain areas could present serious difficulties in the future, did not demonstrate any particular crisis at this time. The GSU was now conducting a survey by way of questionnaires, the results of which might reflect more accurately, certainly in more detail, the actual level of the problem. Chairmen and directors would be asked to co-operate with the School in preparing regular reports on the situation so far as this University was concerned.

Report of the decanal committee on the Phil.M. degree

Associate Dean Parker presented the report of the Decanal Committee set up to conduct a review of the Phil.M. degree. The Committee had completed a thorough investigation of the usefulness and desirability of maintaining the degree, and while it was noted that the Phil.M. was not considered to provide adequate preparation for university teaching, the result was a unanimous recommendation that the Phil.M. program continue unaltered, with the proviso that any department be free to continue or to drop the program as it thought fit.

Council accepted the recommendation, and noted with approval this indication that the Phil.M. degree has an important, if modest, place in the Graduate School.

Caput statement

expects that any new disciplinary regulations will be legislated by the Board of Governors or whatever new governing body is established in the university. For the moment, in view of the lack of consensus on the establishment of an interim disciplinary body, the Caput must continue to exercise its statutory function as the ultimate disciplinary body of the university under the University of Toronto Act, until it is duly replaced.

Future Caput disciplinary hearings will be open to the public at the option of the person accused. As in the past, anyone appearing before the Caput will be entitled to all the rights normally accorded, in conforming with the principles of natural justice, to persons charged in the ordinary courts of the land. This includes the right to be represented by counsel, to present arguments in person or by counsel, and to cross-examine witnesses.
